Kolkata, May 11, 2015: AMRI Mukundapur, the women and child care unit of the AMRI Hospitals Ltd, the largest chain of hospitals in Eastern India, observed Mother's Day honouring some of the courageous mothers who have faced ceaseless struggles with equanimity to raise their children.

The occasion witnessed mothers from various backgrounds sharing their poignant stories of trials and tribulations and how they battled against those to create a favourable environment for the unimpeded progress of their children. Mr Rupak Barua, Group CEO, AMRI Hospitals Limited felicitated the mothers in the presence of Rituparna Sengupta, Agnimitra Paul, Locket Chatterjee, Aparajita Ghosh Das, mother-daughter duo Jayashree and Moubani Sorcar (wife of magician P. C. Sorcar, Jr.)

Mr. Rupak Barua, CEO, AMRI Hospitals Ltd said that, "The thought behind this initiative is to boost the morale of the mothers who have confronted the toughest hurdles in their lives to gift their children a better future. Our dedicated focus on the health of women & child at AMRI Mukundapur gives us opportunities everyday to engage with mothers and be a part of their incredible journey of life. We felt inspired by the stories of ceaseless struggles of these women as mothers and wanted to honour them on a special day that felicitates Motherhood.

Humera Begum is a lower middle-class blind lady, (Hindu before marriage) married to a blind Muslim man,. Her visual impairment made it all the more important for her to become a strong mother to meet life's challenges and successfully raise her three sons, who were born healthy.

Sharmila Bose's only son was born mentally challenged. Without much support from her family, bringing up her son was a big struggle for Sharmila. Today, her son, Surya has discovered his vocation as a dancer and she in turn has found fulfilment in seeing her son's dreams coming true. Fuelled by a sense of solidarity to contribute to the society in a bigger way, she has set up a centre for mentally challenged children who have every right to dream big and lead a healthy normal life.

The assembled guests felt overwhelmed by the perseverance of these women. Some of them, successful mothers in their own right, mentioned how being a mother is a self-effacing job and how it entails carrying out responsibilities for the family's good in the most unrequited way. They congratulated AMRI Mukundapur for taking up this initiative of recognizing mothers who have triumphed in the face of adversities especially because a mother's sacrifice goes unnoticed most of the time in the society.
