“The budget is a forward-thinking blueprint and I am encouraged by its comprehensive vision. Focus on agriculture, employment, skilling &amp; human resource development aligns with our commitment to foster growth  Harshavardhan Neotia   CHAIRMAN, AMBUJA NEOTIA GROUP	“The world is looking at India. Hence, continued enhanced emphasis on export infrastructure, industrial parks, reduction in inverted duty structure is needed in our efforts to make India the global powerhouse in manufacturing and exports  Sanjay Budhia MD, PATTON INTERNATIONAL LTD	“Budget 2024-25 is holistic in nature, offering a level-playing field for many segments. Both direct tax relaxation under the new tax regime and the reform initiatives are directed towards sustainable growth and empowerment  Aditya V Agarwal DIRECTOR, EMAMI GROUP	“The budget sets the agenda for the gov't for next 5 years and is a reflection on its all-round development focus. Enhanced allocation of budgetary resources for infra will help railways and manufacturing sectors  Umesh Chowdhary   VICE CHAIRMAN, TITAGARH GROUP	“Gov't had set high expectations from this budget by calling it a budget for making India a developed nation. It falls short of those expectations. Increase in tax on LTCG will prove negative. Focus on skill and employment is good  Sanjay Agarwal MD, CENTURY PLY	“The budget supported labour-intensive industries by incentivising new employment by ₹15,000 cr &amp; encouraging employers through initiatives that should result in improved competitiveness. Focus on skilling in the best pvt sector firms will help industry-academia collaborations  Rudra Chatterjee   MD, LUXMI GROUP
